For Sight is Priceless!

THE DIAMOND GLASSES,
Manufactured by J. E. SPENCER & CO., N. Y., which are now offered to the public, are pronounced by all the celebrated Opticians of the World to be the MOST PERFECT, Natural, Artificial help to the human eye ever known.
They are ground under their own supervision, from minute Crystal Pebbles, melted together, and derive their name, "Diamond," on account of their hardness and brilliancy.
The Scientific Principle on which they are constructed brings the core or centre of the lens directly in front of the eye, producing a clear and distinct vision, as in the natural, healthy sight, and preventing all unpleasant sensations, such as glimmering and wavering of sight, dizziness, &c., peculiar to all others in use.
They are mounted in the finest manner, in frames of the best quality, of all materials used for that purpose. Their finish and durability cannot be surpassed.
CAUTION.—None genuine unless bearing their trade mark ⟹ stamped on every frame.
LOWELL & SPENCER,
Jewelers and Opticians, are Sole Agents for Bangor, Maine, from whom they can only be obtained. These goods are not supplied to Peddlers, at any price.

James Fisk, Jr., has presented Capt. A. G. Simmons of the steamer Bristol, and Capt. B. M. Simmons of the Providence, and Superintendent G. A. Fuller of the New York and Boston Express, each a $10,000 life insurance policy.

The New York World says it is believed that the detectives have made up their minds pretty conclusively as to the individual who committed the Nathan murder, and that that person, who is now being closely watched, will be arrested soon.

A Cincinnati woman desiring to make way with herself, laid in a lot of opium, a revolver a double-barreled gun, a pistol, and a razor, and began. She had only time to take the opium and shoot herself once before she was arrested.

The truth of the old saying, "A burnt child dreads the fire," is being very unpleasantly demonstrated at Boston just now. On Friday last there were four alarms in that city and only one fire.

The Western papers having positively asserted that a Mr. Simmons was killed by a mowing machine, his bereaved widow comes out in a card demanding a retraction, as "the lamented Mr. S. met his death while repairing the hog-pen, and I do not want a false impression to go abroad."

SPIRITUALISTIC HUMBUG.—The following absurd story comes from White Haven, which, if true, will give spiritualism a fresh impetus among the fools in that neighborhood. The story goes that, within the space of twelve months a mother and her two sons were called to the "spirit land," the last one having been drowned at a saw mill while in the act of collecting wood for fuel. The body when brought home, threw the sister into such a state of terror that she called loudly for her mother. It is then recorded that the spirit of the mother instantly appeared in company with her son, and left her shadow so perfectly traced upon a globe that it is visible to the naked eye, and has since been an object of curiosity and amazement to hundreds of visitors.

The Republicans of Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory, held a meeting Tuesday night to select delegates to the Territorial Convention at Laramie City for nominating a delegate to Congress. The session was a stormy one and the result was unsatisfactory to many Republicans, who declare their intention of voting on the Democratic ticket.

Congressman Butler, of Tennessee, who was charged with selling a cadetship to West Point, but escaped expulsion, is charged with forging the name of a poor widow to papers in the Pension Bureau, and drawing the money due her without her knowledge. The offense is one of the most flagrant character, and if he is guilty his punishment ought to be swift and severe.

PROHIBITION IN NEW HAMPSHIRE. The following is the substance of the new law for the suppression of the sale of intoxicating liquors enacted by the Legislature, to go into operation on the 15th of September next.—The act is an addition to the former law prohibiting the sale of liquors, including ale, beer and cider, to be drawn upon the premises.

The first section relates to the disposal of forfeited liquors. It provides for the appointment of a commissioner by the courts to examine such liquor, and if it is found to be genuine, it becomes the property of the county in which it was seized, and may be sold to any authorized liquor agent. After paying all costs, one-half of the proceeds of the sale goes to the prosecuting party, and the rest to the county.

Section two provides for the release of a person convicted of drunkenness in case he shall disclose the name of the person who furnished him the liquor, and testify in regard to the same.

Section three makes the liquor seller responsible for all injury committed by an intoxicated person upon the person or property of another, and in case of the death or disability of any person, either in consequence of intoxication or at the hands of an intoxicated person, any person who shall be in any manner dependent on such injured person for means of support may recover from the liquor seller all damages or loss sustained. In consequence of such injury. Any married woman may bring action in her own name, and recover damages to her own use.

Section four imposes a penalty of at least fifty dollars upon selectmen, mayors, and aldermen who neglect to prosecute as required by law.

Under section five the lessors of buildings used as brothels, gaming, and liquor selling, are liable to a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than two hundred dollars.

Section six makes it the duty of county solicitors to prosecute with vigor all offences under the amended law.

Section seven gives to a town, or city, by its officers, or an individual who is the complainant, half the fine imposed.

Berlin is growing more rapidly than any other city in Europe, having come up from the eight capital city in 1835, with a population of 250,000, to the third in 1869, with 800,000 inhabitants—a number only exceeded by London and Paris.

THE PREVALENCE OF CRIME.

Such terrible crimes as the murder which has recently stirred even apathetic New York into a spasmodic sense of alarm are constantly furnishing additional evidence, that with all our boasted enlightenment and in spite of the restraints of modern law and the numberless agencies of moral reform, we are still utterly powerless to curb the criminal passions of humanity or make any adequate provision for the security of life and property.

For generations the highest powers of intellect and the noblest exertions of philanthropy have been devoted to the problem of suppressing the evils originating in the lower impulses of our nature; but the most carefully devised penal codes and all the elevating influences of religion and education have failed to prevent the continued occurrence of the most shocking deeds of violence, which still baffle the most intelligent efforts to guard against these frightful exhibitions of human depravity.

The adoption of approved systems of law and the diffusion of knowledge and Christianity have certainly all borne good fruit. Their efforts are apparent in the generally elevated moral tone of society and the comparative freedom of modern communities from many of the oppressions and vices which marked the ages of lawlessness and ignorance; but the "lower deep" of iniquity, the fierce passions which impel men to emulate the atrocities of fiends; and in which the human seems wholly transformed into the devilish, still defy the control of legal enactments or the restraining influences of instruction.

Amid all the achievements of science and philanthropy, with the gratifying evidences of an advancing civilization apparent on every side; we have still been periodically shocked into a sense of the continued and alarming prevalence of crime, by such deeds as that of Frost or some other of the monsters, in the recital of whose butcheries humanity has stood aghast.

In looking for the active agencies which tend to promote and inflame these brutish instincts, intemperance at once presents itself as the most powerful and dangerous of all the instigators of crime, and society is coming, more and more generally, to recognize it as a common enemy and to demand that the traffic which fosters it shall be placed outside the pale of the law. The beneficial results of bringing this great evil under the most effective restrictions which are possible in the present state of public feeling, are admitted by all, and its immediate effect upon the aggregate of crime has been demonstrated in every locality where it has been properly tested.

But these fearful outbreaks of cold-blooded depravity, the premeditated taking of human life, are still only explained by an inherent disposition to evil which we have thus far been unable to reach. Its existence seems independent of station or surroundings, and is alike beyond our present comprehension, whether exhibited by the fearless murderer of the millionaire, or the calculating monster who marches thousands of human beings to slaughter with no thought save the gratification of a selfish pride.

THE LONDON TIMES AND THE MINISTRY. Cable dispatches state that the English Government refuses to allow any officer of the British army to join Prussian headquarters as newspaper correspondents. The London Times engaged Capt. Hozier, their reporter of the Sadowa campaign, as war correspondent, and the Prussian Generals were willing and desirous to receive him, but her Majesty's Government, says the Times, appear to have been seized with sudden alarm lest the pen of a soldier should give relief to Prussian atrocities, which the pen of the civilian would fail to impart; or a relief to French excesses which would wound the susceptibilities of the French nation, and it was actually made a Cabinet question and the Cabinet decided to refuse permission in fear lest the Emperor might take it ill. Messrs. Gladstone and Cardwell are understood to be the authors of this resolution and they are not spared by the powerful journal they offended.

FROM ALASKA. The steamer Alexander just arrived in San Francisco from Sitka, with 70,000 fur skins, brings the following news: St. John's Day and the Fourth of July were appropriately observed. General Davis had been on a visit to the islands of St. Paul and St. George to investigate the reported maladministration in these islands, and found matters in a terrible condition, through the collusion of the Government agents and Hutchinson, Coyle & Co. The seals killed are not restricted to the number allowed by law, and the restrictions on the sales of liquors and ammunition have driven the Sitka Indians to English ports to trade. Gold in paying quantities has been discovered in the river Kenoy. The volcano on Manitock island is in an active state of eruption.

THE CASE OF JOHN REAL. Governor Hoffman's decision in the Real's case, reviews the whole affair and concludes as follows: "I would gladly hear the cry for mercy and spare his life if I could. My judgment, however, tells me that the prisoner was justly convicted of murder and that the interests of the community demand that he should suffer the penalty. The case presents a clear and distinct issue between law and lawlessness. The law must be vindicated. Tell Real, therefore, that he must die on the day appointed for his execution."

A dispatch from Raleigh, N. C., states that the marshal of the Supreme Court has returned from Yanceyville, Col. Kirk having refused to surrender the citizens in custody. The counsel for the prisoners moved for an attachment against Kirk and for a writ to some competent persons to bring in his body and call out the power of the county if necessary. Chief Justice Parsons refused both motions, reiterating his former decision that the power of the judiciary was exhausted and he had no posse comitatus to enforce writs. Six other citizens of Atlantic were arrested yesterday.

THE COIT EXCURSIONISTS.

About half past 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, F. E. Kendrick, Esq., agent in this city of the "Inside Line," received a telegram from down river, stating that the steamer New Brunswick, having on board the "Coit Excursionists," would arrive at the wharf of the City of Richmond of this line, at about half past 6 o'clock. Owing to the late receipt of the dispatch there was not sufficient time to prepare a formal reception for the visitors, and when at 5:40, the steamer reached the wharf, only a few persons were on the spot, prominent among whom were the indefatigable hackmen. The expectations of these knights of the whip were disappointed, however, for they drove away with empty carriages, very few of the excursionists going on shore until after their supper. A number of our prominent citizens gathered on the wharf, and were politely allowed on board where they informally welcomed the party.

After supper, the excursionists came on shore in large numbers and scattered themselves all over the city, so that hardly a street but an item could be seen the badge of the party—a blue ribbon with the word "COIT" unbossed in gold upon it. The livery stables were well patronized and a number of our citizens offered their teams to the strangers, to facilitate an inspection of the city and its surroundings.

In the evening the Worcester Band rendered excellent music on the steamer, after which a social gathering took place in the cabin, which was attended by a number of our citizens and at which the best feeling prevailed. Remarks were made by the President and Treasurer of the Society, Chaplain Osterhout and Mr. Merriam of Nashua, N. H., of the excursionists, and J. S. Rowe, City Solicitor Simpson and Capt. C. A. Bonteil of Bangor; Mr. Lincoln of Boston, read the beautiful poem "Wounded" in a style which did him great credit as an elocutionist; the ladies and gentlemen joined in singing several pieces of music, accompanied by the fine piano on board, and the meeting broke up at a late hour, after a prayer by Rev. Asa Bullard.

The excursionists express themselves much pleased with our city, and it is to be regretted that the short notice of their arrival did not admit of giving them a better reception.

The "Coit Excursionists" were established in Worcester, Mass., three years ago, for the purpose of organizing and carrying out pleasure expeditions in the summer months, and derive their name from that of the steamer in which they made their first trip, which was to New England ports and towns, such as Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard and some half dozen other Places. The party up to the present time numbered about 200 persons, including the Worcester Cornet Band. They came from Worcester—the heavy orders of the excursion—to Boston, Providence and other New England cities and towns—and the sexes are about equally represented. The excursionists—Rev. Asa Bullard, agent for the Tract Society; and Rev. Mr. Osterhout, of Winchendon, Mass., accompany the party. There are a number of local musical gentlemen—Dr. Schofield of Worcester, and Dr. G. F. Fabens of West Boylston; and the Press is represented by Lewis Bennett from the Boston Daily Times and Worcester Spy.

The party is accompanied as follows: President, Mr. George E. Peckham; Vice-President, Mr. J. P. Marshall; Secretary, Mr. Wm. Mercer; Treasurer, Mr. George W. Wilcox; Steward, Mr. Henry Gleason; Assistant Steward, Mr. Thomas Lee; Stewardess, Mrs. Caroline New Brunswick, Capt. Pyle, of the International Line. The steamer became quite familiar to them in good style. The excursionists had their own provisions, which the stewards, assisted by the ladies of their party, served in the dining saloon in excellent manner.

The New Brunswick left Worcester with the party fully equipped at 4 P. M., and arrived in Gloucester, where they remained 3 hours, Lynn 6 hours, at Boston at 9 P. M., leaving Boston for Rockland, where they will remain over night, leaving for Portland at 9 a. m. Friday evening at 11 o'clock the steamer will start from Portland for Boston, whence the excursionists will leave for Worcester at 1:30, Saturday.

—The Methodist Camp Meeting is holden at East Machias, August [illegible]

THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT. In the House of Lords Tuesday, Earl Russell moved the second reading of the bill assuming the militia. He spoke at some length in review of the condition of foreign affairs, and said that the Government requires full defensive powers. The intrigues and perils upon the continent were due to the uncertainty as to the course to be pursued by England. In his opinion we need only to declare for the enforcement of the treaties, whereupon the danger would vanish, for neither of the warring powers could afford to war with England. Only in this manner could Antwerp be saved. Earl Granville lamented the noble Lord's palpable lack of confidence in the Government. A week ago he had fully sustained it and the speaker knew nothing that had since occurred which could properly alter his intention, and while fully sensible as to our obligations to Belgium, Earl Granville considered protocols and injunctions to discuss them with this publicity. Last week, he continued, the noble Lord approved the course of the Ministers and was ready to back them up. The change in his position was irrational and inexcusable. The subject was then dropped. In the Commons, Mr. Gladstone in reply to a question of Mr. Harcourt, said he was unable to submit the correspondence of the late Earl of Clarendon, urging disarmament upon the powers. It is inexpedient even to report its purport. He thought, however, that either France or Prussia might properly do so. Earl Granville had said Mr. Gladstone three weeks ago of signing a protocol by the powers, relating to the renunciation of the Spanish crown since Hohenzollern, but he did so personally and informally, leaving the matter entirely open. On the 16th of July, when it was too late, the proposition was formally declined, but even then it was supposed the announcement would satisfy France, which had vainly sought to withdraw from the candidature upon Prussia. Further remonstrance can only exasperate either Government and the course for England is to give opportunity for the renewal of her efforts in favor of peace. Mr. Otway, Under Foreign Secretary, presented to the House the treaties and charters for the neutrality of Belgium and Luxembourg. Mr. Greek question was discussed briefly. Mr. Cardwell, Secretary of War, in answering a question, said that the British regulars, except one Regiment in India, were armed with Snider rifles, while of the militia and volunteers, some have breech loaders. On the proposition of the Government to enlist 20,000 additional regulars, a discussion arose. Sir W. Lawson urged that now was the time for the intervention of England to secure peace between France and Prussia. Sir J. Pakington followed in support of the proposal of the Ministry and in his remarks urged the importance and its adoption in view of the present weakness of the country.

THE INDIANS. A telegram from Fort Fetterman says that an Indian runner just in, reports that the Sioux, Cheyennes and Arapahoes are encamped in the vicinity of Rosebud and Tongue rivers. A man-at-arms of his horses has 1500 lodges of Sioux with him. They all profess to be peaceable and say that they have no war parties out. There are no Indians near the Big Horn.

The Life Sustaining Principal.

The nerves and muscular systems are entirely dependent upon that principal. A man may have the muscles of a giant, but if he is deficient in vital energy he will be weak, and just as long as he is deficient in vital energy will he remain so. One of the greatest vitalizing principles is to be found in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, in that it increases the vital energy of the system. No medicine can double the muscular power of a man's muscle, for that is impossible, but it does and shows; but Hostetter's Bitters will do what is almost more important. It increases the constitutional vigor. It regulates the Digestive Organs, for which bone and sinew and muscle are formed by instruments, holding the same in check with that machinery does to steam. Let the stomach and digestive organs fake heart, they will do the rest, though far less physical power will be required, and athletes they will be made to, so much, to increase the vital principle, which in full supply, is the best guarantee of longevity, a special property of the famous restorative, it is for dyspepsia, biliousness, dyspepsia, constipation, &c., and in promoting the powers of nature to throw off malarious poisons, for which it has long been celebrated. It is for strengthening, the weak, and preventing the powers of nature from being overthrown, which they may have become lethargic.

The Storming of Saarbrucken Confirmed.

ANOTHER SKIRMISH.

Reported Captures of Wiesenberg by the French.

THE PRUSSIAN FORCE.

Alliance between Austria, Italy and France.

KING WILLIAM TAKES COMMAND.

Despatch from the Emperor Napoleon.

PRUSSIAN ACCOUNT OF THE SAARBRUCKEN AFFAIR.

London, Aug. 3. The following is the Prussian account of the affair at Saarbrucken:—The fortification at this place (Saarbruck) was attacked by a column of French infantry yesterday. The enemy were repulsed.

THE FRENCH VICTORY CONFIRMED.

London, Aug. 3—10 a. m. Saarbrucken was taken by the French this morning. Loss slight on both sides.

ANOTHER SKIRMISH.

Berlin, Aug. 3. The following is official:—A reconnoissance was made yesterday by a body of Baden light horse men and Prussian hussars. The force engaged a French scouting party near Starger Brunn. One officer was killed and several wounded on the French side and two Prussians were slightly wounded.

Paris, Aug. 3. The reports from headquarters received up to 1 a. m., give no change in the military situation.

The Figaro announces the death of Gen. Gaujot, who was commanding a sub-division at Strasburg.

Berlin, Aug. 3. The Prussian government has summoned a levy en masse to defend the coast.

FRANCE FIGHTING BISMARCK NOT PRUSSIA.

Paris, Aug. 3. The Journal Officiel this morning declares that the present war is not against Germany nor against King William, but against Bismarck. The Journal regrets that the Prussian King submits to the dominion of this violent and unscrupulous minister.

RUMOR OF ANOTHER FRENCH VICTORY.

London, Aug. 3. There is a rumor in circulation here to-day that Wiesemberg, a town in Palatinate, on the border, has been stormed by the French.

THE PRUSSIAN FORCE.

The following is given to-day as the number and disposition of the Prussian force:—The Duke of Mecklenburg commands 108,000 men, at the mouth of the Oder; at North Elbe Gen. Folkenstein has 58,000 men; near Ems Gen. Helmonth de Bittefield commands 75,000 men. The army of the Rhine consists of the following bodies: 80,000 at Cologne under Gen. Steinmotz; 160,000 at the junction of the Main with the Rhine under Prince Frederick Charles; 100,000 along the upper Rhine under Prince Royal Frederick William. The chiefs of the staff are Gens. Moltke, Blumenthal, Sporling and Stehle.

SUBSTITUTES SCARCE.

London, Aug. 3. A dispatch from Paris states that 2300 sterling is paid for substitutes and they are scarce at that.

The Daily News this morning says that the French government has declined the services of Gen. Beauregard.

Paris, Aug. 3. Napoleon has ordered the release of the newspaper correspondents recently arrested at Metz.

It is rumored that negotiations are pending to keep open the ports of Hamburg and Bremen during the war. It is said that the United States as well as England, are doing this.

A new revolving cannon has been tried at Vilence and it is said to be a great success.—A correspondent describes it as a terribly destructive weapon at 5000 yards.

REPORTED ALLIANCE OF AUSTRIA AND ITALY WITH FRANCE.

Paris, Aug. 3. It is positively asserted here this morning that Austria and Italy have entered into an alliance with France on account of England's menacing attitude toward France.

Twenty-four thousand beds have been prepared here for the reception of the wounded. Twelve hundred men are employed here to make bread for the French army.

Paris, Aug. 3. The advanced posts of Marshal Bazaine's Corps had a brush to-day with the enemy's sharpshooters. Several of the latter were killed. The French suffered no loss.

London, 3d.—The following details of the affairs at Saarbrucken have been received here: The fight began at 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon. The French passed the frontier in force and the Prussians were driven from their strong position by the sharp artillery fire of the French. The latter remained masters of the position which they won without serious loss.

The Emperor and Prince Imperial witnessed the conflict and returned to Metz to dinner.

Berlin, 3d.—King William, at Mayence today, issued a proclamation to the armies of Germany, assuming the Commandership-in-Chief.

London, 3d.—It is generally admitted by the French that their hesitancy has sacrificed their advantage. An early start might have overwhelmed Germany, but France is now compelled to act mainly on the defensive.

Paris, 3d.—The Presse says that the declaration of the Duke de Grammont regarding the neutrality of Belgium, which was recently sent to London, will soon be committed to Parliament.

The Emperor is now busy improving the soldiers' uniform, which will be made much lighter.

The Garde Mobile is going forward to Chattoos as fast as possible. The people receive them with great enthusiasm.

The Moneteur this morning says there will be no fete in Paris on the 15th of August this year.

The Empress will not go to the front on a visit, as has been reported.

London, 3d.—Horses are said to be scarce in both Germany and France. The Germans need them for cavalry and the French for artillery.

The Danish press is favorable to France.

Dutch troops now occupy Harlem and Ulrelcht and various points on the Yzel.

It is understood that all the war correspondents have been finally expelled from both [illegible]

The Morning Standard, referring to the Alabama question, hopes that in the present war England's neutrality will be less ambiguous.

England is freely exporting horses to Germany, which are immediately forwarded to the seat of war.

A late number of the Vienna Post says that Duke Babott asserts that King William in conversation with him in 1866 informed him that Bismarck was eager to cede the region about the River Saar to France, but the King and Council declined.

Paris, Aug. 3. The French journals this morning publish the following account of the Saarbrucken affair:

Metz, Aug. 2. The French troops passed the border at 11 o'clock. They instantly encountered the Prussians, strongly posted on the heights commanding Saarbrucken, which was carried by a few battalions. The capture of the town immediately followed, the artillery compelling the Prussians to evacuate it in great haste.

Gen. Frossard, with one division, defeated three divisions of the enemy.

The buildings in Saarbrucken caught fire from the French artillery and half the town was destroyed.

Mitrailleurs were used for the first time and is reported to have worked wonders.

The Emperor on his return from Metz after the battle, sent the following telegraphic dispatch to the Empress:

Louis has received his baptism of fire. He was admirably cool and little impressed. A division of Frossard's command carried the heights overlooking the Saar. The Prussians made a brief resistance. Louis and I were in front where the bullets fell about us. Louis keeps a ball he picked up. The soldiers wept at his tranquility. We lost an officer and 12 men. The city of Metz was illuminated last night in honor of the victory. After the retreat of the Prussians the French did not occupy the place.

The Empress with her nieces went this morning to the Chapel of the Nortre Dame des Victories to offer prayers for the success and safety of the Emperor and the Prince Imperial.

Berlin, Aug. 3. The following official dispatch was published yesterday:

A small detachment stationed at Saarbrucken were attacked by three French divisions. After a sharp action the position was abandoned, the Prussians falling back on their supports. The loss was trifling. The Prussians report the arrival of the French Emperor on the bank of the Saar at 11 o'clk in the morning.

THE CENTRAL BANK AFFAIR.

New York, Aug 3.

The liabilities of the Central Bank of Brooklyn will reach $800,000, and perhaps $1,000,000, against $200,000 capital and a State deposit of $5000. As to the collateral securities in possession of the bank, its officers refuse to give any information, and much indignation is expressed by the heavy depositors that the cashier has been appointed receiver. They argue that some disinterested person should have been appointed. The President, John K. Pruyn, has made over to the bank all of his property—even to the furniture in his residence—to the amount of $300,000 or $450,000—or $100,000 more than his indebtedness to the bank. The Central Bank was organized in 1853, and always continued under the State laws.

SERIOUS RIOT.

New York, Aug. 3.

A riot occurred at Peekskill last night, between members of the Iron Moulders' Union and non-Union men, in which Horace Brown, one of the former, was killed in self-defense, by Roderick Shea, who with difficulty was saved by the police from being lynched by the mob.

THE NATHAN MURDER.

New York, Aug. 1.

The Coroner's inquest on the Nathan murder will be commenced at Police headquarters to-morrow, District Attorney Garvin conducting the case for the people. All the evening papers state that Sup't Jourdan has clues which will surely lead to the speedy arrest of the criminal or criminals.

The Republicans of the 9th Ohio District have nominated Charles Foster of Seneca County for Congress.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 3.

COLBY COMMENCEMENT.

Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, the meeting of the Alumni occurred in Alumni Hall, in the Memorial Building, where the usual routine business was transacted. General Plaisted, President, presided at the meeting. A new board of officers was elected as follows: President, Hon. Henry W. Paine of Boston; Secretary, Professor C. E. Hamlin; Council, Profs. Lyford and Foster and Mr. Meader; Treasurer, Prof. Hall. Prof. C. E. Hamlin's exhaustive Obituary Record of the Alumni was presented at the Alumni meeting and circulated in the form of a large pamphlet. Immediately after the delivery of the history of the University, at the church, the procession was reformed and moved back to the Memorial Hall, where the Alumni present, to the number of one hundred and five, with invited guests, sat down to dinner. Remarks were made by Hon. H. W. Paine of Boston, President Champlin, Gov. Chamberlain, Rev. Mr. Merrill, Dr. Wood, Prof. Mathews of Chicago University, Judge Dickerson of Belfast, Dr. Anderson, President of Rochester (N. Y.) University, and others.

In the evening the procession was formed upon the college grounds, which marched to the church, to listen to an oration by Judge Russell of Boston. Prayer was offered by Dr. Upham of Boston, and after an elegant production by the band, the orator of the evening was introduced, who held the attention of the audience upon the theme, "The Scholar in Active Life."

At an early hour Wednesday, the Baptist church, where the exercises were held, was filled with people. President Champlin presided, when the exercises proceeded according to the following programme, the Germania Band furnishing music:

CONFERRING OF DEGREES.

BENEDICTION.

*Excused.

The Lewiston Journal says that the speakers acquitted themselves with great credit, both in manner and matter, and the friends of the University expressed themselves as much gratified with the proofs of its efficiency as illustrated in the quality of men its instructors are developing.

The degree of A. B. was conferred on the following members of the graduating class:—Charles Henry Cumston, Monmouth; Edwin Augustus Daniels, Paris; Frederick Eveleth, Durham; George Llewellyn Farnum, Rumford; Edward Payson Roberts, Waterboro'; Erastus Melville Shaw, Rockland. The degree of A. M. in course was conferred on several members of the class of 1867, and the following honorary degrees were conferred:—LL. D., Ephraim Lunt of Boston; D. D., Prof. E. O. Mitchell, Shurtleff Cole, and H. U. Dexter.

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS.

—The thermometer continues to get high.

—Yesterday was a good day for both races.

—The steamer New Brunswick was engaged for some time in pitting "colts" after leaving Eastport yesterday.

—We were in error yesterday in stating that the Bangor Cornet Band were hired by the Baptist Societies to play for their visitors. The Band, with characteristic liberality, volunteered for the occasion.

—The little boys about town have taken the boating fever, and parties of them may be seen daily, paddling all sort of small craft in the river and stream.

—Our expected report of the trot at Orono yesterday afternoon, failed to reach us, but we learn that "Gen. Sherman" won the 2:37 race and "Cushnoc" the 3-minute race.

—A match game of Base Ball was played yesterday afternoon between the Union and Dirigo clubs, the former winning by a score of 63 to 30.

—We learn that the Missisquoi House, near St. Albans, Vt., was destroyed by fire on Sunday. Hon. S. H. Blake and wife of this city had just arrived, and several of our citizens were about leaving for that place, but will be obliged to seek recreation in another direction.

—Patrick H. Canning, for an assault upon his wife was fined $10.00 in the Police Court yesterday, and ordered to furnish $500 bonds to keep the peace for one year. The bail not forthcoming, Patrick was committed to jail. The police inform us that this is the seventh time Canning has been arraigned for abusing his family.

—The Grand Lodge, I. O. of O. F. holds a session in Biddeford on the 9th instant at 8 o'clock, a. m. We learn that it is proposed to have a procession in Regalia on the evening of the same day, after which the Grand Encampment meets. On the 10th, Laconia Lodge of Biddeford and Saco Lodge of Saco, will have an excursion and picnic, to which the representatives, officers and members of the Grand Lodge and Encampment are invited, with their ladies.

—Two excitable Frenchmen went into Murry's saloon yesterday afternoon and after devouring "two stows for two," went off without paying for them. The assistance of an officer was called, the Gauls overtaken, and the stews paid for—all in a very few minutes, but it required a great expenditure of breath on the part of the defaulting oyster-devourers to make things right again.

—Agricultural College. The annual examination of the classes of the Maine State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts was held at Orono yesterday. The exercises were interesting and the young men acquitted themselves well, reflecting great credit on their instructors. At the close, remarks were made by Gov. Chamberlain, Rev. Messrs. Allen, Reed and Baker. The prize declamation of the Sophomore Class was held in the Methodist church on Tuesday evening. The speaking was very good, and the singing was excellent. The first prize was awarded to Benjamin F. Gould of Waterville; the second to Oren S. Sargent of Milo.

—We learn from the Machias Union that on the evening of July 25th, while a number of boys were bathing near A. Wallace's store in Milbridge, a son of Capt. Frederick Foster, aged 8 years, was drowned.

—Mr. W. H. Pope, of East Machias, fell from a lumber pile on Friday last, sustaining injuries which will confine him to his house for a few days, says the Union.

—Assistant Ness, of the U. S. Coast Survey, with quite a force of hands is sounding or surveying Moose-a-beck Reach, as we learn from the Machias Union.

—Sunday morning, Mr. Simon Lowell, of Harrison, died instantly, while driving his cattle to pasture. Mr. D. was about 67 years of age, says the Lewiston Journal.

—The Times says that during the past year a lady of Bath has knitted 74 pairs of stockings.

—Portland Press says that the statement that Charles G. Taylor of Norridgewock, was so badly injured by being run over by the cars at Oak Hill station, is a hoax. No such accident has occurred.

—The Lewiston Journal says that Mr. Geo. M. Robinson is building a trotting course on his farm, a mile to the east of Augusta, to train his horses on. He has some fine ones; among them "Col. Lakeman."

—The Oriental Powder Mill No. 3, near Gorham exploded Tuesday morning at nine o'clock by the clogging of machinery. The building was badly shattered and two workmen, James Jordan of Raymond and Clinton B. Hooper, of Windham, badly burned, so that though still alive, they will probably die.

—The Lewiston Journal says that four persons were baptized at the river, Sunday morning, by Rev. H. B. Abbot, pastor of the Main Street M. E. Church, and three at the altar the Sabbath previous.

—Sunday morning, says the Times, a large show bottle in a Bath druggist's window collected the rays of the sun in such a manner as to act as a powerful sun-glass. The tissue paper lining the window, was burnt and the flame was extending to the wood-work, when it was discovered.

—The Kennebec Journal learns that on Saturday Mrs. Francis Paul, of Boston, who was visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jane Call, in Gardiner, died very suddenly at about noon, from the effects of an overdose of laudanum, which she was in the habit of taking. Her age was 23 years and 11 months. She leaves a husband in Boston.

—As the afternoon train from Lewiston to Bangor was leaving West Waterville, Monday, the Engineer, discovered a heavy timber lying over the track on both rails. He reversed speed and whistled "down brakes," but before the speed could be checked nearly the whole train had passed harmlessly over the timber, says the Lewiston Journal.

—The Machias Union says that the house of Thomas Robb of Alexander was burned on the 27th ult. Mr. R. was absent and his wife and children were in the field. Nothing was saved but a part of a barrel of flour. Mr. Robb has been infirm for several years, and is now unable to work; he has a wife and six small children.

—The Lewiston Journal says that there was a little railroad sensation at Waterville on Monday. Hon. John Ware of Athens has mortgages for $180,000 on the Penobscot & Kennebec Railroad. The notes secured by these mortgages fell due on Monday, and were presented for payment. The Railroad Corporation, through its President, Judge Rice, of Augusta, tendered Mr. Ware $180,000 in greenbacks, but Mr. W. declined to receive them—asking, "why didn't you bring gold?" and demanding the $180,000 in gold, under the recent decision of the Supreme Court which declares that liabilities incurred prior to the war, are to be paid in specie. The Corporation declined to pay gold, and so Mr. Ware proposes to take the next steps to get the gold.

—The Houlton Times says that Mr. Arno W. Gilden has made arrangements for the purchase of the Presque Isle Sunrise, which he will hereafter publish.

Be Wise To-Day. 'Tis madness to neglect a cough or cold, however slight. Protect Your Roofs

—FROM—

Fire and Decay,

By the application of WILLIAMS'

PETROLEUM METAL PAINT.

This paint was used to considerable extent in various parts of this State last season, and we have yet to hear of the first person who was not pleased with it. It has also been in use in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Vermont several years, and has proved itself to be just what is needed to preserve the shingles and prevent that decay to which all exposed wood work is subject. It is adapted to Tin or Iron as well as wood roofs, Iron fences, &c.

We, the undersigned having applied Williams' Petroleum Metal Paint to our roofs last season and noted carefully its effect since that time, take pleasure in recommending it to our friends and the public generally, as being, in our opinion, worth much more than the cost of it, as a preventive from decay to which wood roof is subject, requiring as it does reshingling every few years; whereas, by the application of this paint, which fills the pores of the wood, hardens, and virtually becomes a part of the same, rendering it absolutely impervious to water, we see no reason why the shingles shall not last a life-time.

We also consider it proof against fire from floating sparks or cinders.

It does not injure the water for cistern use; it improves the appearance of the building, and will prove, we feel confident, a pleasing and paying investment to all who apply it to their roof.

THE Central Railroad, of Iowa,

235 MILES IN LENGTH

NOW NEARLY COMPLETED.

The Company are now pushing their work forward with great rapidity, and the entire line necessary to connect St. Louis and St. Paul is graded and under contract to be finished this season. The fact that this enterprise has been undertaken by a combination of leading bankers and railroad capitalists of well known wealth, experience, and ability, insures its early completion and future success.

The road runs through the richest and most thickly settled portion of Iowa, and is built in the interests of the great Northern system of roads which centre at St. Paul. The of the Company pay 7 per cent. Gold Interest, free of Government tax, and are issued for the very small amount of $16,000 per mile. For the present, the unsold portion are offered at 95 and accrued interest. The attention of investors is invited to the fact that the road is now nearly finished, and that the Security is therefore entitled to a high rank.

In our opinion, no class of investments has been found so uniformly safe and profitable as First Mortgages on completed railroads.

Of 235 companies operating 30,000 miles of railroad in the Northern and Western States, on which there is a bonded debt of $602,000,000, we know of but two that do not pay their interest regularly.

We believe there will be no more favorable time to sell Governments, and buy really First-class Railroad Securities—such as these—than the present.

W. B. SHATTUCK,

Treasurer.

After a full examination, we have accepted an Agency for the Sale of the above First Mortgage Bonds, and desire to recommend them to our customers AS A THOROUGHLY SAFE, AS WELL AS PROFITABLE, INVESTMENT.

SHORE.

Summer is in the air, and birds are everywhere;
Their lays are singing loud and clear;
Brooks are bubbling over, hark is of intense delight
On the edges of the hills appear.

All the meadow blazes with buttercup and daisy,
And the very hedges are tangles of sports
Delightful to be brambling, all bewitching pathways
In among this wilderness of bloom.

The thorn-flower bursts its sheath, the mayflower hangs a wreath,
And blue-eyed grasses beckon to those Whose grassy pinewood walks, eager to go
When rainy clouds are gathering one

The very world is blushing in delicious mood,

ROSINE MILLER'S VELVET CLOAK.

BY SOMEBODY.

"They are all alike!" exclaimed pretty Milly Thorne, impatiently tossing aside a magazine over which she had been poring the last hour.

"What are all alike?" queried her cousin, looking up from his paper.

"Old maids people in books. They never marry, and that is the sum and substance of the whole! I do wish that somebody would write something new, and not tell the old story over and over again."

"Is it the old, old story of Love that so wearied you? I thought that was now and fresh in a maiden's heart."

Milly blushed a little as she replied—"I don't always want to be reading of love, you know, Uncle Charlie. Now I should think somebody might tell us a story, interesting one, too, about something actually happened in somebody's life, and wind up the whole affair with a wedding and orange-blossoms?"

"Well, yes, Milly, I suppose the thing possible; indeed, I am not sure but I could succeed in it myself."

"Oh! will you, you dear, good uncle?" a minute," and Milly sprang from her low stool at her uncle's side, her head resting upon his knee, her favorite position during story-telling. "There, now, I am all please begin."

"Well, then, darling, I'll tell you about Rosine Miller's Velvet Cloak: For the benefit of winters Rosie had wanted a velvet cloak. Now, if she had only been the only daughter of some millionaire, it would have been so easy to drive down to Stewart's, give the order, with no more serious exercise of thought than would be required to decide upon the shape and style; but poor Rosie was only a school-teacher, with a very small salary, and there were numerous portions of economy to be met and considered before she could venture upon so expensive a purchase—moreover, her taste in dress was a trifle extravagant; the velvet must be of the very best, and the trimming of rare and costly lace; nothing less would satisfy the ambitious young lady; so she had wisely waited until she could fully realize her ideal, for young ladies sometimes have other ideals than ideal lovers.

"I shall want you to go shopping with me to-morrow, she said to her Cousin Helen, one day shortly before Christmas. 'I am going to buy my velvet cloak.'

"'At last!' exclaimed her cousin. 'Really I begin to think you are not intended to allow yourself the luxury of a new dress. You are such a little miser, I don't see how you can make up your mind to afford it?'

"'Well, you see, Helen, I didn't want it until I could get precisely what suited me; besides, I needed dresses to correspond. I couldn't very well wear such a cloak with an alpaca dress, could I? And you know I am to spend Christmas week at Glenwood, and I want to look real nice, for there are to be lots of people there.'

"'So you have decided to accept Nell's invitation?'

"'Yes, and you—'

"'Oh! I shall go, of course; I wouldn't miss it for anything. There isn't another place in the world equal to Glenwood.'

"'When do you go?'

"'It will be impossible for me to leave until the day before Christmas. You, I suppose, will go sooner?'

"'Yes, next week. But I must be off. Call for me to-morrow.'

"Left alone, Rosie put her little feet up to the grate, and leaning back in her chair, was soon lost in a delicious revery. Nellie Howard, an old schoolmate, and very dear friend, had laid a positive injunction upon Rosie to spend the holiday season with her, who, reluctantly, consented. 'I want you to look your very prettiest,' so the letter ran, 'for we shall have lots of people here; but the special attraction for you is to be my wonderful Cousin Charlie, concerning whom you have been forced to listen to so many rhapsodies, and whom you used to style my king among men. You see, Rosie, I am opposed on principle to marrying one's cousin, and being unable to appropriate him myself, I shall magnanimously feed him over to you. Hasn't that what you would call pure generosity?'

"Rosie laughed a little as she read this, then took a rapid survey of her wardrobe and its belongings. Even her dainty taste was satisfied with one exception—her cloak was decidedly getting shabby, and since she must get a new one, why not make the long-coveted purchase? A short calculation in mental arithmetic ensued, and then she decided the cloak should be bought the very next day. She was aroused from her revery by a knock at the door, and a little head was thrust inside—A letter for you, Miss Rosie.'

"With a kiss and a smile, Rosie thanked the messenger. 'Ah! from Bessie,' she said gladdening at the superscription. Bessie was her only sister, and ten years her senior. Their mother dying during Rosie's childhood, Bessie grew for all the love and tender care that a fond sister could bestow. She married, very young, a man who seemed born to be unfortunate; nothing prospered in his hands. Failing in business within a year, he accepted, after months of idleness, a situation as clerk on a miserable pittance. He either was, or forced himself to be, a confirmed invalid, thereby excusing himself to his conscience for his weak performance of manly duties, as well as the life of slavish servitude to which he subjected his meek, young wife. Then it was that Rosie remembered the love and care lavished upon her childhood. Many a needful gift came from her generous hand, and not unfrequently liberal sums of money were freely given to relieve the necessities of her sister and the little one. One child, a little girl, named for her, Rosie had clothed and educated. For her brother-in-law she felt little sympathy, being keen-sighted enough to see him as he really was—a weak, indifferent, selfish tyrant, whose misfortunes were to be attributed solely to his lack of manly courage and energy. But Bessie and the children she tenderly loved, and could not endure the thought of their suffering for the want of anything that she could supply. Of late such demands upon her generosity had been more frequent than usual, but the last letter had seemed to promise better things. For a wonder all were in good health. Mr. Lee's salary had been increased, and altogether Bessie wrote in a hopeful tone that was very cheering to Rosie; therefore, with no painful misgiving that Rosie opened her letter, but as she read the smile vanished from her lips, and the happy light faded out of her eyes. She laid it down with a sigh, and no wonder for thus it ran:

"'I have not written you for the last six weeks, partly because I have been too busy, but mainly for the reason that I have nothing but bad news. Fred has been obliged to give up his position on account of sickness; his cough returned, and he found the work too confining. Two of the children were down with scarlet fever, and I am just recovering from a severe attack of pleurisy. What with doctor's bills, nurses, and the innumerable expense of illness, we are entirely out of money. The children need shoes and warm dresses; Fred has no overcoat; our stock of fuel is almost exhausted; and I am completely discouraged. I don't see how we are to get along through the winter, Rosie, dear, unless you can help us. I know you have done more than we had any right to expect, and I am ashamed to ask you again; but if you can, help us through this difficulty. I hope we shall be able to take care of ourselves hereafter.'

"The next day one hundred dollars found its way to Bessie, and Rosie called on her way from school to tell her cousin that the contemplated shopping expedition was to be indefinitely postponed.

"'What! you don't repented of your extravagance already?' queried Helen in surprise.

"'Not in the least.'

"Then why in the world have you so suddenly changed your mind? Do tell me I am dying to know.'

"Nothing outstanding her disappointment, Rosie laughed as she answered, 'I have sent the money to Bessie.'

"'Now, Rosie' began her cousin indignantly, 'has Bessie Lee had the assurance to send you another begging letter, after all you have done for that family? Why don't that lazy husband of hers go to work and support his wife and children? I should think he would be ashamed to take money from you.'

"'I do not know what you mean by a "begging letter," said Rosie, quietly ignoring Helen's last question. 'She has written a very sad one, to tell me that Fred is in poor health and out of employment, two of the children are sick, money is very, very scarce with them, and there are so many things absolutely needed, that I have decided to wear my
